Important Change for 1998

New table of cost recovery factors for annuities with survivor benefits. If your annuity starting date is after 1997 and your civil service annuity provides survivor benefits for your spouse, you must use a new table of cost recovery factors (the number of anticipated monthly annuity payments) to figure the tax-free part of your annuity payments under the Simplified Method. You determine the factor to use by combining your age and your spouse's age on the annuity starting date.

The new table for annuities based on the lives of more than one annuitant is shown below:

Combined Age of Annuitants	Number of Payments
Not more than 110	410
More than 110, but not more than 120	360
More than 120, but not more than 130	310
More than 130, but not more than 140	260
More than 140	210

Important Reminders

Civil service annuity payments. If your annuity starting date is after November 18, 1996, you cannot use the General Rule to figure your taxable annuity. Instead, you must use the Simplified Method. Also, the recovery factors (the number of anticipated monthly payments) used to figure the tax-free portion of your annuity under the Simplified Method have changed. See Simplified Method in Part II of this publication.

Repeal of $5,000 death benefit exclusion. The beneficiary of an employee who dies after August 20, 1996, cannot claim the $5,000 death benefit exclusion. See Rules for Survivors of Federal Employees in Part IV.

Introduction

This publication explains how the federal income tax rules apply to civil service retirement benefits received by retired federal employees (including those disabled) or their survivors. These benefits are paid primarily under the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) or the Federal Employees' Retirement System (FERS).

Tax rules for annuity benefits. Part of the annuity benefits you receive is a tax-free recovery of your contributions to the CSRS or FERS. The rest of your benefits is taxable. You should generally use the Simplified Method to figure the taxable and tax-free parts. However, if your annuity starting date is before November 19, 1996, you can choose to use the more complex General Rule. See Part II.

Thrift Savings Plan. The Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) provides federal employees with the same savings and tax benefits that many private employers offer their employees. This plan is similar to private sector 401(k) plans. You can defer tax on part of your pay by having it contributed to your account in the plan. The contributions and earnings on them are not taxed until they are distributed to you. See Thrift Savings Plan in Part II.

Part I General Information

This section contains information that can apply to most recipients of civil service retirement benefits.

Refund of Contributions

If you leave federal government service or transfer to a job not under the retirement system and you are not eligible for an immediate annuity, you can choose to receive a refund of the money to your credit in the retirement fund (your total contributions, both regular and voluntary, plus any interest payable). The amount of the refund that is more than your total contributions to the fund (cost) is taxable. It is taxable in the year the refund is distributed or made available to you. If you only receive your contributions, no part of the refund is taxable.

Generally, some or all of the taxable part of the distribution from active participation in the retirement plan before 1974 may qualify for capital gain treatment. The taxable part from participation after 1973 is taxed as ordinary income, but may be eligible for the 5- or 10-year tax option.

The taxable part of the distribution may also be subject to an additional 10% tax on early distributions if you separate from service before the calendar year in which you reach age 55. For more information, see Lump-Sum Distributions and Tax on Early Distributions in Publication 575.

This discussion does not apply to the lump-sum payment available to certain retirees who choose the alternative annuity option. See Alternative Annuity Option in Part II.

Rollovers. If you leave federal service and receive your contributions plus interest, you may be able to roll over all or part of the interest tax free into another qualified plan or an individual retirement arrangement (IRA). Tax will be withheld at a 20% rate unless you roll the interest over by having the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) transfer it directly to an IRA or other plan.

Under the CSRS, but not the FERS, interest is not paid on civil service contributions for service after 1956 unless the refund of contributions covers a period of government service of more than 1 year but less than 5. Many employees who withdraw their contributions under the CSRS do not get interest; consequently, they have nothing to roll over.

If you are the surviving spouse of an employee or retiree and you receive a refund of the contributions plus interest, you may roll over all or part of the interest into an IRA.

See Rollover Rules in Part II for more information.

Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax

The annuity you receive is subject to federal income tax withholding based on tables prepared by the Internal Revenue Service, unless you choose not to have tax withheld. If you choose not to have tax withheld, or if you do not have enough income tax withheld, you may have to make estimated tax payments.

For 1997, the total of your withheld tax and estimated tax payments generally must cover at least 90% of your total tax for the year or 100% of the tax shown on your return for 1996, whichever is less. If it does not, you may owe a penalty. See chapter 4 in Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax, for more information.

These withholding rules also apply to a disability annuity, whether received before or after minimum retirement age. See Part III for rules on disability retirement.

Choosing no withholding. You generally can choose not to have tax withheld from your annuity. The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) will tell you how to make the choice. This choice for no withholding remains in effect until you change it.

Withholding on payments outside United States. The choice for no withholding generally cannot be made for annuity payments to be delivered outside the United States and its possessions.

To choose exemption from withholding if you are a U.S. citizen or resident, you must provide OPM with your home address in the United States or its possessions. Otherwise, OPM has to withhold tax. For example, OPM must withhold if you provide a U.S. address for a nominee, trustee, or agent (such as a bank) to whom the benefits are to be delivered, but you do not provide your own U.S. home address.

You also may choose exemption from this withholding if you certify to OPM that you are not a U.S. citizen, a U.S. resident alien, or someone who left the United States to avoid tax. But if you so certify, you may be subject to the 30% flat rate withholding that applies to nonresident aliens. For details, see Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.

Withholding certificate. If you give OPM a Form W-4P-A choosing withholding, your annuity will be treated like wages for income tax withholding purposes. If you do not make a choice, OPM must withhold as if you were married with three withholding allowances.

To change the amount of tax withholding or to stop withholding, call OPM's Retirement Information Office at 1-888-767-6738 or call Annuitant Express at 1-800-409-6528. No special form is needed. You will need your retirement claim number (CSA or CSF) and your social security number when you call.

Withholding from certain lump-sum payments. If you leave the federal government before becoming eligible to retire and you apply for a refund of your contributions, or you die without leaving a survivor eligible for an annuity, you or your beneficiary will receive a distribution of your contributions to the retirement plan plus any interest payable. Tax will be withheld at a 20% rate on the interest distributed. However, tax will not be withheld if you roll it over to an IRA or a qualified plan by having OPM transfer it directly to the IRA or other plan. See Rollover Rules in Part II. If you receive only your contributions, no tax will be withheld.

If you retire and elect to receive a reduced annuity and a lump-sum payment under the alternative annuity option, tax will be withheld at a 20% rate on the taxable part of the lump-sum payment received. (See Alternative Annuity Option in Part II for information about this option.) However, no tax will be withheld from the lump sum if you roll the taxable part over to an IRA or a qualified plan by having OPM transfer the taxable part directly to the IRA or other plan.

Estimated tax. Generally, for 1998, you should make estimated tax payments if you anticipate that your withholding tax plus your credits will be less than the smaller of:

- 1) 90% of the tax to be shown on your 1998 income tax return, or
- 2) 100% of the tax shown on your 1997 income tax return. (The return must cover all 12 months.)

There will be no penalty for the underpayment of 1998 estimated tax if:

- 1) The total tax due for 1998, minus your withholding and credits, is less than $1,000, or
- 2) You had no tax liability for 1997.

Form 1040-ES contains a worksheet that you can use to see if you should make estimated tax payments. For more information, see chapter 2 in Publication 505.

Form CSA 1099R. Form CSA 1099R, Statement of Annuity Paid, is mailed to you by OPM each year. It will show any tax you had withheld. File copy B of Form CSA 1099R with your return if any federal income tax was withheld.

Withholding from Thrift Savings Plan payments. A distribution that you receive from the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) is subject to federal income tax withholding. The amount withheld is 20% if the distribution is an eligible rollover distribution, 10% if it is a nonperiodic distribution, or an amount based on IRS tables if it is a periodic distribution. However, you can usually choose not to have tax withheld from TSP payments other than eligible rollover distributions. By January 31 after the end of the year in which you receive a distribution, the TSP will issue Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., showing the total distributions you received in the prior year and the amount of tax withheld.

For a detailed discussion of withholding on distributions from the TSP, see Important Tax Information About Payments From Your Thrift Savings Plan Account (Rev. March 1997), available from your agency personnel office or from the TSP.

Filing Requirements

If your gross income, including the taxable part of your annuity, is less than a certain amount, you generally do not have to file a federal income tax return. The gross income filing requirements are in the instructions to the Form 1040, 1040EZ, or 1040A that you get each year. You should check these requirements closely because they change occasionally.

Children. If you are the surviving spouse of a federal employee or retiree and your monthly annuity check includes a survivor annuity for one or more children, each child's annuity counts as his or her own income (not yours) for federal income tax purposes.

If your child can be claimed as a dependent, treat his or her annuity as unearned income to apply the filing requirements. For 1997, a return generally must be filed for the child if his or her gross income (including the taxable part of the child's annuity) was more than $650. (If the child was blind, see your tax return instructions for the filing requirement.) If your child cannot be claimed as a dependent, a return generally must be filed if his or her gross income was more than $6,800.

Form CSF 1099R. By January 31 after the end of each tax year, you should receive Form CSF 1099R, Statement of Survivor Annuity Paid, which will show the total amount of the annuity you received in the past year. It should also separately show the survivor annuity for a child or children. Only the part that is each individual's survivor annuity should be shown on that individual's Form 1040 or 1040A.

If your Form CSF 1099R does not separately show the amount paid to you for a child or children, you may request a Summary of Benefits, showing the amounts paid to you for your child(ren), from the Office of Personnel Management by calling Annuitant Express at 1-800-409-6528. Attach a statement to your return, along with a copy of Form CSF 1099R, explaining why the amount shown on the tax return differs from the amount shown on Form CSF 1099R.

Taxable part of annuity. To find the taxable part of each annuity, see the discussion in Part IV, Rules for Survivors of Federal Employees, or Part V, Rules for Survivors of Federal Retirees, whichever applies.

Part II Rules for Retirees

This section is for retirees who retired on nondisability retirement. If you retired on disability, see Part III, Rules for Disability Retirement and Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled, later.

Annuity Statement. The statement you received when your CSRS or FERS annuity was approved shows your total contributions to the retirement plan (your cost) and the gross monthly rate of your annuity benefit. The gross monthly rate is the amount you were to get after your annuity was adjusted for electing the survivor's annuity and for electing the lump-sum payment under the alternative annuity option (if either applied) but before income tax withholding, insurance premiums, etc., were deducted.

Your cost. If you are a retired employee, your monthly annuity check contains an amount on which you have previously paid income tax. This amount represents part of your contributions to the retirement plan. Even though you did not receive the money that was contributed to the fund, it was includible in your gross income for federal income tax purposes in the year it was taken out of your pay.

The cost of your annuity is the total of your contributions to the retirement plan. It includes any deemed deposits and any deemed redeposits. See Deemed deposits and redeposits under Alternative Annuity Option, later.

When your annuity starts, the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) will tell you what this amount is.

Repayment of contributions plus interest. If you repaid to the retirement plan contributions that you had withdrawn earlier, or if you paid into the plan to receive full credit for service not subject to retirement deductions, the entire repayment, including any interest, is a part of your cost. You cannot claim an interest deduction for any interest payments. You cannot treat these payments as voluntary contributions; they are considered regular employee contributions.

Recovering your cost tax free. How you figure the tax-free recovery of the cost of your CSRS or FERS annuity depends on your annuity starting date.

- If your annuity starting date is before July 2, 1986, either the Three-Year Rule (see Three-Year Rule, later under General Rule) or the General Rule would apply to your annuity.
- If your annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, and before November 19, 1996, you must use the General Rule or the Simplified Method.
- If your annuity starting date is after November 18, 1996, you must use the Simplified Method.

Under the General Rule or the Simplified Method, each of your monthly annuity payments is made up of two parts: the tax-free part that is a return of your cost, and the taxable balance. The tax-free part is a fixed dollar amount. It remains the same, even if your annuity is increased. This rule applies as long as you receive your annuity. However, see Exclusion limit, later.

General Rule. Under the General Rule, you figure the tax-free part of each full monthly payment by applying an exclusion percentage to the initial gross monthly rate of your annuity. The result is the tax-free part of each gross monthly annuity payment. Figuring this percentage is complex and requires the use of actuarial tables. These tables, as well as other information you need to figure the exclusion under the General Rule, are in Publication 939, General Rule for Pensions and Annuities.

Simplified Method. Under the Simplified Method, you figure the tax-free part of each full monthly payment by dividing your cost by a number of months based on your age.

If your annuity starting date is after November 18, 1996, the number you divide by is larger than the number used by those whose annuity starting date is earlier.

Changing the method. If your annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, but before November 19, 1996, you can change the way you figure the tax-free recovery of your cost (from the General Rule to the Simplified Method, or the other way around) by filing amended returns for all your tax years beginning with the year in which you received your first annuity payment. You must use the same method for all years. Generally, you can make the change only within 3 years after the due date of your return for the year in which you received your first annuity payment (or, if later, within 2 years after the tax for that year was paid).

Annuity starting date. Your annuity starting date is important in applying any of the rules to figure the tax on your annuity. The annuity starting date is called the commencing date on the annuity statement. You should use this date to determine which rule to use, and to make the computation under that rule.

If you retire from federal government service on a regular annuity, your annuity starting date generally is the first day of the month after the month in which you retire. However, if you work the first 3 days (or less) of a month and then retire under the CSRS, your annuity starting date generally is the day after retirement. If you are involuntarily separated from service for reasons other than misconduct or delinquency, your annuity starting date is the day after separation from service.

If something delays payment of your annuity, such as a late application for retirement, it does not affect the date your annuity begins to accrue or your annuity starting date.

Disability retirement. If you retired on disability, see Part III, Rules for Disability Retirement and Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled, later in this publication, to determine the date you will begin to report your disability payments as an annuity.

Exclusion limit. If your annuity starting date is after 1986, the total amount of annuity income that you (or the survivor annuitant) can exclude over the years as a return of your cost may not exceed your total cost.

Example. Your annuity starting date is after 1986 and you exclude $100 a month under the Simplified Method. If your cost is $12,000, the exclusion ends after 10 years (120 months). Thereafter, your entire annuity is taxable.

Annuity starting date before 1987. If your annuity starting date was before 1987, you continue to take your monthly exclusion figured under the General Rule or Simplified Method for as long as you receive your annuity. If you chose a joint and survivor annuity, your survivor continues to take the survivor's exclusion figured as of the annuity starting date. The total exclusion may be more than your cost.

Deduction of unrecovered cost. If your annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, and the cost of your annuity has not been fully recovered at your (or the survivor annuitant's) death, a deduction is allowed for the unrecovered cost. The deduction is claimed on your (or your survivor's) final tax return as a miscellaneous itemized deduction (not subject to the 2%-of-adjusted-gross-income limit). If your annuity starting date is before July 2, 1986, no tax benefit is allowed for any unrecovered cost at death.

Choosing a survivor annuity after retirement. If you retired without a survivor annuity and began reporting your annuity under the Simplified Method, do not change your tax-free monthly amount even if you later choose a survivor annuity.

If you retired without a survivor annuity and decided to report your annuity under the General Rule, you must figure a new exclusion percentage if you later choose a survivor annuity. To figure it, reduce your cost by the amount you previously recovered tax free. Figure the expected return as of the date the reduced annuity begins. For details on the General Rule, see Publication 939.

Canceling a survivor annuity after retirement. If you notify the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) that your marriage has ended (by death, divorce, or annulment), your annuity can be increased to remove the reduction for a survivor benefit. The increased annuity does not change the cost recovery you figured at the annuity starting date. The tax-free part of each annuity payment remains the same.

Simplified Method

If your annuity starting date is after November 18, 1996, you must use the Simplified Method to figure the tax-free part of your CSRS or FERS annuity. You can choose to use either the Simplified Method or the General Rule if your annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, but before November 19, 1996. You will probably find the Simplified Method both simpler and more beneficial than the General Rule.

Table 1. Use Table 1, Simplified Method Worksheet, (near the end of this publication) to figure your taxable annuity. Be sure to keep the completed worksheet; it will help you figure your taxable amounts for later years.

Line 2. Your cost in the plan includes any deemed deposits or redeposits (explained later under Alternative Annuity Option.) If your annuity starting date was after November 18, 1996, and you chose the alternative annuity option, reduce your cost by the lump-sum payment you received.

Line 3. In completing line 3, use your age at your last birthday before your annuity starting date. If you received your first annuity payment in 1997 but your annuity starting date was before November 19, 1996, do not enter the amount shown for your age on the worksheet. Instead, enter:

- 300, if you were 55 or under,
- 260, if you were 56 - 60,

- 240, if you were 61 - 65,
- 170, if you were 66 - 70,
- 120, if you were 71 or older.

Line 6. If you retired before 1997, the amount previously recovered tax free that you must enter on line 6 is the total amount from line 10 of last year's worksheet.

Example. Bill Kirkland, age 65, began receiving retirement benefits in January 1997 under a joint and survivor annuity to be paid for the joint lives of Bill and his wife, Kathy. He had contributed $24,700 to the plan and had received no distributions before the annuity starting date. Bill is to receive a retirement benefit of $1,000 a month, and Kathy is to receive a monthly survivor benefit of $500 upon Bill's death.

Bill must use the Simplified Method computation. He fills in the worksheet as follows:

Table 1. Simplified Method Worksheet

1. Enter the total annuity received this year. Also add this amount to the total for Form 1040, line 16a, or Form 1040A, line 11a $12,000
2. Enter your cost in the plan at the annuity starting date, plus any death benefit exclusion 24,700

NOTE: If you received annuity payments in prior years, skip line 3 and enter the amount from line 4 of last year's worksheet on line 4.

3. Age at annuity starting date: Enter:

55 and under	360
56-60	310
61-65	260
66-70	210
71 and over	160	260
4. Divide line 2 by line 3 95
5. Multiply line 4 by the number of months for which this year's payments were made 1,140

NOTE: If your annuity starting date was before 1987, enter the amount from line 5 on line 8 below. Skip lines 6, 7, 10, and 11.

6. Enter any amounts previously recovered tax free in years after 1986 0
7. Subtract line 6 from line 2 24,700
8. Enter the smaller of line 5 or line 7 1,140
9. Taxable annuity for year. Subtract line 8 from line 1. Enter the result, but not less than zero. Also add this amount to the total for Form 1040, line 16b, or Form 1040A, line 11b $10,860

NOTE: If your Form CSA 1099R shows a larger amount, use the amount on line 9 instead.

10. Add lines 6 and 8 1,140
11. Balance of cost to be recovered. Subtract line 10 from line 2 $23,560

Bill's tax-free monthly amount is $95. (See line 4 of the worksheet.) If he lives to collect more than 260 monthly payments, he will have to include in his gross income the full amount of any annuity payments received after 260 payments have been made.

If Bill does not live to collect 260 monthly payments and his wife begins to receive monthly payments, she will also exclude $95 from each monthly payment until 260 payments (Bill's and hers) have been collected. If she dies before 260 payments have been made, a miscellaneous itemized deduction (not subject to the 2%-of-adjusted-gross-income limit) will be allowed for the unrecovered cost on her final income tax return.

General Rule

If your annuity starting date is before November 19, 1996, you could have chosen to use the General Rule to figure the tax-free part of your CSRS or FERS annuity. If your annuity starting date is before July 2, 1986, you could have made that choice only if you could not use the Three-Year Rule (explained later).

Compared with simplified method. If you are able to use the Simplified Method (discussed above), it will usually be easier to use than the General Rule. You usually will pay less tax if you use it. The General Rule is not explained in this publication. If you want to compare results using the two rules, get Publication 939.

Three-Year Rule. If your annuity starting date was before July 2, 1986, you probably had to report your annuity using the Three-Year Rule. Under this rule, you excluded all the annuity payments from income until you fully recovered your cost. After the cost was recovered, all payments became fully taxable. You cannot use another rule to again exclude amounts from income.

The Three-Year Rule was repealed for retirees who have an annuity starting date after July 1, 1986.

Alternative Annuity Option

If you are a nondisability retiree under either the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) or the Federal Employees' Retirement System (FERS), you may be able to choose the alternative annuity option. This option is generally available only to those with certain life-threatening illnesses or other critical medical conditions. If you choose this option, you will receive a lump-sum payment equal to your total regular contributions to the retirement plan plus any interest that applies. Your monthly annuity is then reduced by about 5 to 15 percent to adjust for this payment.

If you choose the alternative annuity option, the amount of the lump-sum payment is usually fully taxable. However, it may have a non-taxable part in some cases. The nontaxable part, if any, is that amount by which the payment exceeds the income on the contract. The income on the contract is equal to the present value of the annuity contract minus the contributions you made to the retirement system. To determine the present value of the contract, call the IRS Actuarial Branch 3 at 202-622-7789 (not a toll-free call).

You can figure the nontaxable part of a lump-sum payment using the following worksheet.

- 1) Enter the total lump-sum payment $ _____
- 2) Enter the present value of the contract $ _____
- 3) Enter the investment in the retirement plan $ _____
- 4) Income on the contract. Subtract line 3 from line 2 $ _____
- 5) Nontaxable part of the lump-sum payment. Subtract line 4 from line 1. (If line 4 is more than line 1, enter -0-.) $ _____

Annuity starting date before November 19, 1996. If your annuity starting date was before November 19, 1996, and you chose the alternative annuity option, different rules apply. Under those rules, 85% to 95% of the payment amount equal to your contributions to the retirement system is taxable. Figure the taxable part by using Table 2, Worksheet for Lump-Sum Payment, near the end of this publication. Your annuity payments are partly taxable under either the Simplified Method or the General Rule (as explained earlier).

Example. Fran Brown retired from the federal government on November 9, 1996, at age 55. She was entitled to a regular annuity (without survivor benefit) of $1,000 a month if she did not choose the alternative annuity option. Her annuity cost (the total of her contributions to the plan) was $21,780. Accrued interest on these contributions totaled $220.

Upon her retirement, Fran elected the alternative annuity option, reducing her monthly annuity to $915. In 1997, she received the lump-sum payment of $22,000, which equaled her contributions plus the interest that applied.

She figures the taxable part of her lump-sum payment as follows:

Table 2. Worksheet for Lump-Sum Payment

1) Largest original monthly annuity payment available (after the reduction for a survivor benefit, if applicable)	$ 1,000
2) Monthly annuity payment after election of lump-sum payment	915
3) Annuity reduction (subtract line 2 from line 1)	85
4) Lump-sum credit (contributions plus interest plus deemed deposits or redeposits). Also include the result in the total for line 16a, Form 1040, or line 11a, Form 1040A	22,000
5) The amount on line 4 minus interest	21,780
6) Divide line 3 by line 1 (round to 3 decimal places)085
7) Tax-free portion of lump-sum payment (multiply line 5 by line 6)	$ 1,851
8) Taxable portion of lump-sum credit (subtract line 7 from line 4). Also include the result in the total for line 16b, Form 1040, or line 11b, Form 1040A	$ 20,149

In figuring the taxable part of her annuity payments, Fran must use the Simplified Method. Under this rule, she divides her total cost ($21,780) by the number (360) for her age at her annuity starting date from line 3 of Table 1. The result, $60.50, is her monthly tax-free amount.

The total that Fran can exclude over the years is $21,780, which is made up of $1,851, the tax-free part of her lump-sum credit, and $19,929, the tax-free part of her annuity payments.

Rollovers. You can roll over the taxable part of the lump-sum payment to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan. OPM must withhold income tax of 20% on the taxable part of the payment unless you have OPM transfer that part directly to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan. See Rollover Rules later in this part for more information.

If your contributions include a deemed deposit or redeposit, discussed later, OPM will make a direct rollover only up to the net lump-sum payment amount. If the taxable amount (line 8 of Table 2, Worksheet for Lump-Sum Payment) is more than your net lump-sum payment, you can roll over the difference using your own funds within 60 days. If you do not roll over this difference, you must include it as taxable income on your income tax return.

5- or 10-year tax option or capital gain treatment.

Your lump-sum payment does not qualify for the 5- or 10-year tax option or capital gain treatment. Do not report any lump-sum payment or any interest on Form 4972, Tax on Lump-Sum Distributions. This form is used to elect these optional methods. For more information, get Publication 575.

Where to report. As stated on the worksheet, add any actual or deemed payment of your lump-sum credit to the total for line 16a, Form 1040, or line 11a, Form 1040A. Add the taxable portion to the total for line 16b, Form 1040, or line 11b, Form 1040A, unless you roll over the taxable portion to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan. Include any interest paid with the second installment on line 8a.

Additional tax. If you retired before the calendar year in which you reach age 55, you must pay an additional tax equal to 10% of the taxable amount of the lump-sum payment that you do not roll over to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan. Report the additional tax on line 50, Form 1040. You may also have to complete Form 5329, Additional Taxes Attributable to Qualified Retirement Plans (Including IRAs), Annuities, Modified Endowment Contracts, and MSAs and attach it to your Form 1040. If you do not have to attach Form 5329, write "No" on the dotted line next to line 50 of your Form 1040.

The 10% additional tax does not apply to the taxable amount of the lump-sum payment that is equal to your deductible medical expenses for the year (after reduction by 7½% of your adjusted gross income), even if you do not itemize deductions.

Deemed deposits and redeposits. Your lump-sum credit is the sum of your contributions to the retirement system, interest on those contributions, and any deemed deposits and deemed redeposits. Deemed deposits (including interest) are for federal employment during which no retirement contributions were taken out of your pay. Deemed redeposits (including interest) are for any refunds of retirement contributions that you received but have not repaid. You will get credit for this prior service without actually making these deposits or redeposits. Your reduced (alternative) annuity will be figured as though, before retirement, you had made these deposits and redeposits to OPM. The lump-sum payment actually made to you will not include these amounts.

Lump-sum payment in installments. If you choose the alternative annuity option, you usually will receive the lump-sum payment in two equal installments. You will receive the first installment after you make the choice upon retirement. The second installment will be paid to you, with interest, in the next calendar year. (Exceptions to the installment rule are provided for cases of critical medical need.)

Even though the lump-sum payment is made in installments, the overall tax treatment (explained at the beginning of this discussion) is the same as if the whole payment were paid at once.

If the payment has a nontaxable part, you must treat the taxable part (the income on the contract) as received first. (See the earlier discussion for computation of the taxable and nontaxable parts.) You can figure the nontaxable part of each installment using the following worksheet.

- 1) Enter the nontaxable part of the lump-sum payment $ _____
- 2) Enter the first installment $ _____
- 3) Enter the income on the contract $ _____
- 4) Nontaxable part of the first installment. Subtract line 3 from line 2. (If line 3 is more than line 2, enter -0-.) $ _____
- 5) Nontaxable part of the second installment. Subtract line 4 from line 1. $ _____

Annuity starting date before November 19, 1996.

In this case, the tax-free percentage of each installment is the same as would apply to the lump-sum payment as a whole. The tax-free amount of the first installment is 50% of the tax-free portion on line 7 of your Worksheet for Lump-Sum Payment. Likewise, the tax-free amount of the second installment is 50% of the amount on line 7. The balance of each installment payment is taxable, including the interest on the second installment.

If you have deemed deposits or deemed redeposits (discussed earlier), your lump-sum payment is reduced. This will affect the tax-free amount of each installment, as shown in the following example.

Example. Your unadjusted lump-sum credit was $20,000. Your payment, however, was reduced by a $2,000 deemed redeposit of contributions that had been previously refunded to you. You were therefore entitled to an $18,000 lump-sum payment. Half of this, or $9,000, was paid to you as the first installment. The remaining $9,000 was paid in the second installment.

You are considered to have received the $2,000 redeposit with the first installment, making a total of $11,000 ($9,000 plus $2,000). This is 55% of the total $20,000 lump-sum credit (instead of 50%). Apply this 55% to the tax-free amount of the total lump-sum credit (from line 7 of your Worksheet for Lump-Sum Payment). The result is the tax-free part of the first installment. The remaining 45% of the tax-free amount of the total lump-sum credit is the tax-free part of the second installment.

Federal Gift Tax

If, through the exercise or nonexercise of an election or option, you provide an annuity for your beneficiary at or after your death, you have made a gift. The gift may be taxable for gift tax purposes. The value of the gift is equal to the value of the annuity.

Joint and survivor annuity. If the gift is an interest in a joint and survivor annuity where only you and your spouse can receive payments before the death of the last spouse to die, the gift will generally qualify for the unlimited marital deduction. This will eliminate any gift tax liability with regard to that gift.

If you provide survivor annuity benefits for someone other than your current spouse, such as your former spouse, the unlimited marital deduction will not apply. This may result in a taxable gift.

More information. For information about the gift tax, see Publication 950, Introduction to Estate and Gift Taxes.

Retirement During the Past Year

If you have recently retired, the following discussions covering annual leave, voluntary contributions, and community property may apply to you.

Annual leave. Treat a payment for accrued annual leave received on retirement as a salary payment. It is taxable as wages in the tax year you receive it.

Voluntary contributions. Voluntary contributions to the retirement fund are those made in addition to the regular contributions that were deducted from your salary. They also include the regular contributions withheld from your salary after you have the years of service necessary for the maximum annuity allowed by law. Voluntary contributions are not the same as employee contributions to the Thrift Savings Plan. See Thrift Savings Plan, later.

Additional annuity benefit. If you choose an additional annuity benefit from your voluntary contributions, it is treated separately from the annuity benefit that comes from the regular contributions deducted from your salary. This separate treatment applies for figuring the amounts to be excluded from, and included in, gross income. It does not matter that you receive only one monthly check covering both benefits. Each year you will receive Form CSA 1099R, Statement of Annuity Paid, that will show how much of your total annuity received in the past year was from each type of benefit.

Figure the taxable and tax-free parts of your additional monthly benefits from voluntary contributions using the rules that apply to regular CSRS and FERS annuities, as explained earlier in Part II.

Refund of voluntary contributions. If you choose a refund of your voluntary contributions plus accrued interest, the interest is taxable to you in the tax year it is distributed unless you roll it over to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan. See Rollover Rules, later. The interest does not qualify for the 5- or 10-year tax option.

Example. You retired in November when you reached the necessary age and years of service to retire. You applied for an annuity based on your regular contributions to the plan. You chose a refund of your voluntary contributions plus interest.

On December 15, you received the refund. The interest is fully taxable (no 5- or 10-year tax option treatment is allowed) unless you roll it over to an IRA or a qualified retirement plan within 60 days.

Additional tax. The accrued interest included in the refund of voluntary contributions and not rolled over into an IRA or a qualified retirement plan is generally subject to a 10% additional tax on early distributions if the refund is made to you before the date you reach age 59½. However, the tax does not apply if the refund is made after your retirement and you retired during or after the calendar year in which you reached age 55.

Also, the 10% additional tax does not apply if you retired at any age because of total and permanent disability. Nor does the additional tax apply to the accrued interest that is equal to your deductible medical expenses for the year (after reduction by 7½% of your adjusted gross income), even if you do not itemize deductions.

Report the additional tax on line 50, Form 1040. You may also have to complete Form 5329 and attach it to your Form 1040. If you do not have to attach Form 5329, write "No" on the dotted line next to line 50 of your Form 1040.

Community property laws. State community property laws apply to your annuity. This will affect your income tax if you file a separate return from your spouse.

Generally, the determination of whether your annuity is separate income (taxable to you) or community income (taxable to both you and your spouse) is based on your marital status and domicile when you were working. Regardless of whether you are now living in a community property state or a noncommunity property state, your current annuity may be community income if it is based on services you performed while married and domiciled in a community property state.

At any time, you have only one domicile even though you may have more than one home. Your domicile is your fixed and permanent legal home to which, when absent, you intend to return. The question of your domicile is mainly a matter of your intentions as indicated by your actions.

If your annuity is a mixture of community income and separate income, you must divide it between the two kinds of income. The division is based on your periods of service and domicile in community and noncommunity property states while you were married.

For more information, see Publication 555, Community Property.

Reemployment After Retirement

If you retired from federal service and were later reemployed by the federal government, you can continue to receive your annuity during reemployment. Your annuity will continue to be taxed just as it was before. If you are still recovering your cost, you continue to do so. If you have recovered your cost, the annuity you receive while you are reemployed is generally fully taxable. The employing agency will pay you the difference between your salary for your period of reemployment and your annuity. This amount is taxable as wages.

Nonresident Aliens

There are some special rules for nonresident alien federal employees performing services outside the United States and for nonresident alien retirees and beneficiaries.

Special rule for figuring your total contributions.

Your contributions to the retirement plan (your cost) also include the government's contributions to the plan to a certain extent. You include government contributions that would not have been taxable to you at the time they were contributed if they had been paid directly to you. For example, government contributions would not have been taxable to you if, at the time made, your services were performed outside the United States. Thus, your cost is increased by government contributions that you would have excluded as income from foreign services if you had received them directly as wages. This reduces the benefits that you, or your beneficiary, must include in income.

This method of figuring your total contributions does not apply to any contributions the government made on your behalf after you became a citizen or resident of the United States.

Limit on taxable amount. There is a limit on the distributions paid to a nonresident alien retiree or nonresident alien beneficiary that must be included in income. The taxable part of each monthly payment is figured using the following worksheet:

Worksheet for Nonresident Alien Retiree or Beneficiary

1) Portion of monthly annuity otherwise taxable	$ _____
2) Total basic pay for services for the United States	$ _____
3) Total basic pay minus part that was nontaxable as being from sources outside the United States	$ _____
4) Taxable part of monthly annuity [[(3) ÷ (2)] × (1)]	$ _____

Basic pay. Basic pay includes your regular pay plus any standby differential. It does not include bonuses, overtime pay, certain retroactive pay, uniform or other allowances, or lump-sum leave payments.

Example 1. You are a nonresident alien who had performed all services for the United States abroad as a nonresident alien. You retired and began to receive a monthly annuity of $200. Your combined basic pay for all services for the United States was $100,000.

Without regard to the limit explained above, you would have had to include $60 of each monthly annuity payment in your gross income. Since you are a nonresident alien, the taxable part of each monthly payment after use of the limit is figured as follows:

Worksheet for Nonresident Alien Retiree or Beneficiary

1) Portion of monthly annuity otherwise taxable	$ 60
2) Total basic pay for services for the United States	$ 100,000

3) Total basic pay minus part that was nontaxable as being from sources outside the United States	$ _____	0
4) Taxable part of monthly annuity $[(3) \div (2)] \times (1)$ $[(\$0 \div \$100,000) \times \$60]$	\$ _____	0

Example 2. You are a nonresident alien who retired from your employment with the United States. For your work performed both within the United States and abroad you began to receive a monthly annuity of $240.

Your total basic pay for your services for the United States was $120,000; $80,000 was for work done in the United States, and $40,000 was for your work done in a foreign country. You were a nonresident alien during all of your employment.

Under the rules that would otherwise apply to your annuity, you would have had to include $165 of each monthly payment in your gross income. Applying the limit based on your present rate of annuity the taxable part of each monthly payment is figured as follows:

Worksheet for Nonresident Alien Retiree or Beneficiary

1) Portion of monthly annuity otherwise taxable	$ _____	165
2) Total basic pay for services for the United States	$ _____	120,000
3) Total basic pay minus part that was nontaxable as being from sources outside the United States. $($120,000 - $40,000)$	$ _____	80,000
4) Taxable part of monthly annuity $[(3) \div (2)] \times (1)$ $[(\$80,000 \div \$120,000) \times \$165]$	\$ _____	110

Thrift Savings Plan

All of the money in your Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) account is taxed as ordinary income when you receive it. This is because neither the contributions to your TSP account nor its earnings have been previously included in your taxable income. The way that you withdraw your account balance determines when you must pay the tax.

Direct rollover by the TSP. If you ask the TSP to transfer any part of the money in your account to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA) or other qualified retirement plan, the tax on that part is deferred until you receive payments from the IRA or other plan. See Rollover Rules, later.

TSP annuity. If you ask the TSP to buy an annuity with the money in your account, the annuity payments are taxed when you receive them. However, the payments are not subject to the tax on early distributions, even if you are under age 55 when they begin.

Cash withdrawals. If you withdraw any of the money in your TSP account, it is taxed as ordinary income when you receive it unless you roll it over into an IRA or other qualified plan. (See Rollover Rules, later.) If you receive your entire TSP account balance in a single tax year, you may be able to use the 5- or 10-year tax option to figure your tax. See Lump-Sum Distributions in Publication 575 for details.

If you receive a single payment or payments over a period of less than 10 years, the TSP must withhold 20% for federal income tax. If you receive payments over a period of 10 or more years or a period based on your life expectancy, they are subject to withholding under the same rules as your CSRS or FERS annuity. See Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax in Part I.

Tax on early distributions. If you separate from government service before the calendar year in which you reach age 55, any money paid to you from your TSP account before you reach age 59½ is generally subject to an additional 10% tax on early distributions. Report the tax on line 50 of Form 1040. You may also have to file Form 5329. For details, see the Form 1040 instructions for line 50.

This additional tax does not apply in the following situations:

- 1) You receive a series of payments based on your life expectancy, or
- 2) You retire on disability.

Also, this tax does not apply to the amount of payments you receive equal to your medical expenses for the year, minus 7.5% of your adjusted gross income.

Outstanding loan. If the TSP declares a distribution from your account because money you borrowed has not been repaid when you separate from government service, your account is reduced and the amount of the distribution (your unpaid loan balance and any unpaid interest) is taxed in the year declared. The distribution also may be subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions. However, the tax will be deferred if you make a rollover contribution to an IRA or other qualified plan equal to the declared distribution amount. See Rollover Rules, next. If you withdraw any money from your TSP account the same year, the TSP must withhold income tax of 20% of the total of the declared distribution and the amount withdrawn.

More information. For more information about the TSP, see Summary of the Thrift Savings Plan for Federal Employees, distributed to all federal employees. Also see Important Tax Information About Payments From Your Thrift Savings Plan Account, which is available from your agency personnel office or from the TSP.

Rollover Rules

A rollover is a tax-free withdrawal of cash or other assets from one qualified retirement plan or IRA and its reinvestment in another qualified retirement plan or IRA. You do not include the amount rolled over in your income, and you cannot take a deduction for it. The amount rolled over is taxable later as the new program pays that amount to you. If you roll over amounts into an IRA, subsequent distributions of these amounts from the IRA do not qualify for the capital gain or the 5- or 10-year tax option. Capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option will be regained if the IRA contains only amounts rolled over from a qualified plan and these amounts are rolled over from the IRA into a qualified retirement plan.

A qualified retirement plan is a qualified pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan, or a qualified annuity plan. The CSRS, the FERS, and the TSP are considered qualified retirement plans.

Distributions eligible for rollover treatment. If you receive a refund of your CSRS or FERS contributions when you leave government service, you can roll over any interest you receive on the contributions. You cannot roll over any part of your CSRS or FERS annuity payments.

You can roll over a distribution of any part of your TSP account balance except:

- 1) Any of a series of substantially equal distributions paid at least once a year over:
 - a) Your life or life expectancy,
 - b) The joint lives or life expectancies of you and your beneficiary, or
 - c) A period of 10 years or more,
- 2) A required minimum distribution generally beginning at age 70½, or
- 3) A declared distribution because of an unrepaid loan, if you have not separated from government service (see Outstanding Loan under Thrift Savings Plan, earlier).

In addition, a distribution to your beneficiary generally is not treated as an eligible rollover distribution. However, see Qualified domestic relations order and Rollover by surviving spouse, later.

Direct rollover option. You can choose to have the OPM or TSP transfer any part of an eligible rollover distribution directly to another qualified retirement plan that accepts rollover distributions or to an IRA.

No tax withheld. If you choose the direct rollover option, no tax will be withheld from any part of the distribution that is directly paid to the trustee of the other plan.

Payment to you option. If an eligible rollover distribution is paid to you, the OPM or TSP must withhold 20% for income tax even if you plan to roll over the distribution to another qualified retirement plan or IRA. However, the full amount is treated as distributed to you even though you actually receive only 80%. You must include in income any part (including the part withheld) that you do not roll over within 60 days to another qualified retirement plan or to an IRA.

If you leave government service before the calendar year in which you reach age 55 and are under age 59½ when a distribution is paid to you, you may have to pay an additional 10% tax on any part, including any tax withheld, that you do not roll over. See Tax on Early Distributions in Publication 575.

Exception to withholding. Withholding from an eligible rollover distribution paid to you is not required if the distributions for your tax year total less than $200.

Partial rollovers. If you receive a lump-sum distribution, it may qualify for capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option. See Lump-Sum Distributions in Publication 575. If you roll over any part of the distribution, the part you keep does not qualify for this special tax treatment.

Rolling over more than amount received. If you want to roll over more of an eligible rollover distribution than the amount you received after income tax was withheld, you will have to add funds from some other source (such as your savings or borrowed amounts).

Example. You left government service at age 53. On January 31, 1998, you receive an eligible rollover distribution of $10,000 from your TSP account. The TSP withholds $2,000, so you actually receive $8,000. If you want to roll over the entire $10,000 to postpone including that amount in your income, you will have to get $2,000 from some other source and add it to the $8,000 you actually received. You must complete the rollover by April 1, 1998.

If you roll over only $8,000, you must include in your 1998 income the $2,000 not rolled over. Also, you may be subject to the 10% additional tax on the $2,000.

Time for making rollover. You must complete the rollover of an eligible rollover distribution by the 60th day following the day on which you receive the distribution.

Frozen deposits. If an amount that was distributed to you is deposited in an account from which you cannot withdraw it because of either:

- 1) The bankruptcy or insolvency of any financial institution, or
- 2) Any requirement imposed by the state in which the institution is located because of the bankruptcy or insolvency (or threat of it) of one or more financial institutions in the state, that amount is considered a "frozen deposit" for the period during which you cannot withdraw it.

A special rule extends the period allowed for a tax-free rollover for frozen deposits. The period during which the amount is a frozen deposit is not counted in the 60-day period allowed for a tax-free rollover to a qualified plan or an IRA. Also, the 60-day period does not end earlier than 10 days after the deposit is no longer a frozen deposit. To qualify under this rule, the deposit must be frozen on at least one day during the 60-day rollover period.

Qualified domestic relations order. You may be able to roll over tax free all or part of a distribution you receive from the CSRS, the FERS, or the TSP under a court order in a divorce or similar proceeding. You must receive the distribution as the government employee's spouse or former spouse (not as a nonspousal beneficiary). The rollover rules apply to you as if you were the employee. You can roll over the distribution if it is an eligible rollover distribution (described earlier) and it is made under a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) or, for the TSP, a qualifying order.

A QDRO is a judgment, decree, or order relating to payment of child support, alimony, or marital property rights. The payments must be made to a spouse, former spouse, child, or other dependent of a participant in the plan. For the TSP, a QDRO can be a qualifying order, but a domestic relations order can be a qualifying order even if it is not a QDRO. For example, a qualifying order can include an order that requires a TSP payment of attorney's fees to the attorney for the spouse, former spouse, or child of the participant.

The order must contain certain information, including the amount or percentage of the participant's benefits to be paid to each payee. It cannot change the amount or form of the plan's benefits.

A distribution that is paid to a child, dependent, or, if applicable, an attorney for fees, under a QDRO or a qualifying order is taxed to the plan participant.

Rollover by surviving spouse. You may be able to roll over tax free all or part of the CSRS, FERS, or TSP distribution you receive as the surviving spouse of a deceased employee. The rollover rules apply to you as if you were the employee, except that you can roll over the distribution only into an IRA. You cannot roll it over into a qualified retirement plan. A distribution paid to a beneficiary other than the employee's surviving spouse is not an eligible rollover distribution.

You cannot roll over into an IRA any part of the distribution to which you apply the death benefit exclusion.

How to report. On your Form 1040, report the total distributions from the CSRS, FERS, or TSP on line 16a. Report the taxable amount of the distributions minus the amount rolled over, regardless of how the rollover was made, on line 16b. If you file Form 1040A, report the total distributions on line 11a and the taxable amount minus the amount rolled over on line 11b.

Written explanation to recipients. The TSP or OPM must provide a written explanation to you within a reasonable period of time before making an eligible rollover distribution to you. It must tell you about:

- 1) Your right to have the distribution paid tax free directly to another qualified retirement plan or to an IRA,
- 2) The requirement to withhold tax from the distribution if it is not paid directly to another qualified retirement plan or to an IRA,
- 3) The nontaxability of any part of the distribution that you roll over to another qualified retirement plan or to an IRA within 60 days after you receive the distribution, and
- 4) If they apply, the other qualified retirement plan rules, including those for lump-sum distributions, alternate payees, and cash or deferred arrangements.

Reasonable period of time. The TSP or OPM must provide you with a written explanation no earlier than 90 days and no later than 30 days before the distribution is made. However, you can choose to have a distribution made less than 30 days after the explanation is provided as long as the following two requirements are met.

- 1) You must have the opportunity to consider whether or not you want to make a direct rollover for at least 30 days after the explanation is provided.
- 2) The information you receive must clearly state that you have the right to have 30 days to make a decision.

Contact the TSP or OPM if you have any questions about this information.

Choosing the right option. The following comparison chart may help you decide which distribution option to choose. Carefully compare the tax effects of each and choose the option that is best for you.

Comparison Chart

Direct Rollover	Payment To You
No withholding.	Payer must withhold income tax of 20% on the taxable part even if you roll it over to another plan or to an IRA.
No 10% additional tax.	If you are under age 59½, a 10% additional tax may apply to the taxable part, including the tax withheld, that you do not roll over.
Not income until later distributed to you from the other plan or the IRA.	Taxable part, including the tax withheld, is income if not rolled over.
Not eligible for capital gain or 5- or 10-year tax option. *	May be eligible for capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option if no part is rolled over.

*May be eligible for capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option when later distributed to you from the plan that accepts the rollover.

How To Report Benefits

If you received annuity benefits that are not fully taxable, report the total received for the year on Form 1040, line 16a, or on Form 1040A, line 11a. Also include on that line the total of any other pension plan payments (even if fully taxable, such as those from the Thrift Savings Plan) that you received during the year in addition to the annuity. Report the taxable amount of these total benefits on line 16b (Form 1040) or line 11b (Form 1040A). If you use Form 4972, Tax on Lump-Sum Distributions, however, to report the tax on any amount, do not include that amount on lines 16a and 16b or lines 11a and 11b; follow the Form 4972 instructions.

If you received only fully taxable payments from your retirement, the Thrift Savings Plan, or other pension plan, report on Form 1040, line 16b, or Form 1040A, line 11b, the total received for the year (except for any amount reported on Form 4972); no entry is required on line 16a (Form 1040) or line 11a (Form 1040A).

Part III

Rules for Disability Retirement and Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

If you retired on disability from the CSRS or FERS, the disability pension you receive is taxable as wages until you reach minimum retirement age. Beginning on the day after you reach minimum retirement age, your payments are treated as a retirement annuity. At that time or at any time thereafter, you can begin to recover the cost of your annuity under the rules discussed in Part II.

If you find that you could have started your recovery in an earlier year for which you have already filed a return, you can elect to start your recovery of contributions in that earlier year by filing an amended return for that year and each succeeding year. Generally, an amended return for any year must be filed within 3 years after the due date for filing your original return for that year.

Minimum retirement age (MRA). This is the age at which you could first receive an annuity were you not disabled. This is generally based on your age and length of service.

Retirement under the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS). In most cases, under the CSRS, the minimum combinations of age and service for retirement are:

- Age 55 with 30 years of service,
- Age 60 with 20 years of service,
- Age 62 with 5 years of service, and
- For law enforcement, firefighter, or air traffic controller service, age 50 with 20 years of covered service.

Retirement under the Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS). Your MRA under the FERS is between 55 and 57 with at least 10 years of service. With at least 5 years of service, your MRA cannot be greater than age 62. Specifically, your MRA with at least 10 years of service is shown in the following table:

If you were born in	Your MRA is
1947 or earlier	55 years
1948	55 years, 2 months
1949	55 years, 4 months
1950	55 years, 6 months
1951	55 years, 8 months
1952	55 years, 10 months
1953 to 1964	56 years
1965	56 years, 2 months
1966	56 years, 4 months
1967	56 years, 6 months
1968	56 years, 8 months
1969	56 years, 10 months
1970 or later	57 years

How to report. You must report all your disability payments received before minimum retirement age on line 7 (Form 1040 or Form 1040A).

Withholding. For income tax withholding purposes, a disability annuity is treated the same as a nondisability annuity. This treatment also applies to disability payments received before minimum retirement age when these payments are shown as wages on your return. See Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax in Part I, earlier.

Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled

You may be able to take the credit for the elderly or the disabled if:

- 1) You were age 65 or older at the end of the tax year, or
- 2) You were under age 65 at the end of the tax year and you meet all of the following tests:
 - a) You are retired on permanent and total disability,
 - b) You received taxable disability income in the tax year, and
 - c) You did not reach mandatory retirement age (explained later) before the beginning of the tax year.

You are retired on permanent and total disability if you were permanently and totally disabled when you retired and you retired on disability before the close of the tax year. If you retired on disability before 1977 but you were not permanently and totally disabled at the time you retired, you can qualify for the credit if you were permanently and totally disabled on January 1, 1976, or January 1, 1977.

Permanently and totally disabled. You are permanently and totally disabled if you cannot engage in any substantial gainful activity because of your physical or mental condition. A physician must certify that your condition is expected to result in death or has lasted, or can be expected to last, continuously for 12 months or more. Substantial gainful activity is the performance of significant duties over a reasonable period of time while working for pay or profit, or in work generally done for pay or profit.

For further information, see Substantial gainful activity in Publication 524, Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

Mandatory retirement age. This is the age set by your employer at which you must retire. There is no mandatory retirement age for most federal employees. However, there is a mandatory retirement age for the following employees.

- 1) An air traffic controller appointed after May 15, 1972, by the Department of Transportation or the Department of Defense generally must retire by the last day of the month in which he or she reaches age 56.

- 2) A firefighter employed by the U.S. Government who is otherwise eligible for immediate retirement generally must retire on the last day of the month in which he or she reaches age 55 or, if later, completes 20 years of firefighter service.
- 3) A law enforcement officer employed by the the U.S. Government who is otherwise eligible for immediate retirement generally must retire on the last day of the month in which he or she reaches age 57 or, if later, completes 20 years of law enforcement service.

Physician's statement. If you are under 65, have your doctor complete a statement certifying that you are permanently and totally disabled. Attach the statement to your return. You can use the Physician's Statement in Part II of either Schedule R (Form 1040) or Schedule 3 (Form 1040A). However, check the box in Part II and do not attach a physician's statement if:

- 1) You filed a physician's statement for the same disability with your return for 1983 or an earlier year or you filed a statement for tax years after 1983 and your physician signed line B on the statement, and
- 2) Due to your continued disabling condition, you were unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity in the tax year.

If you have not filed a physician's statement in a previous year, or if your statement did not meet the conditions in (1) above, you must have your physician complete a statement.

Figuring the credit. If you want the Internal Revenue Service to figure your tax and credits, including the credit for the elderly or the disabled, see Publication 967 and the instructions for Schedule R (Form 1040) or Schedule 3 (Form 1040A).

For detailed information about this credit, get Publication 524.

Other Benefits

The tax treatment of certain other benefits is explained in this section.

Federal Employees' Compensation Act (FECA). FECA payments you receive for personal injuries or sickness resulting from the performance of your duties are like workers' compensation. They are tax exempt and are not treated as disability income or annuities. However, payments you receive while your claim is being processed, including pay while on sick leave and "continuation of pay" for up to 45 days, are taxable.

Sick pay or disability payments repaid. If you repay sick leave or disability payments you received in an earlier year to be eligible for nontaxable FECA benefits, you can deduct the amount you repay. You can claim the deduction whether you repay the amount yourself or have the FECA payment sent directly to your employing agency or the OPM.

Claim the deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040) as a miscellaneous itemized deduction, subject to the 2%-of-adjusted-gross-income limit. It is considered a business loss and may create a net operating loss if it reduces your taxable income to zero. Get Publication 536, Net Operating Losses, for more information. The repayment is not eligible for the special tax credit that applies to repayments over $3,000 of amounts received under a claim of right.

If you repay sick leave or disability payments in the same year you receive them, the repayment reduces the taxable sick pay or disability benefits you include in income. Do not deduct it separately.

Terrorist attack. Disability benefits you receive for injuries resulting from a violent attack are tax exempt and are not treated as disability income or annuities if (1) the Secretary of State determines it to be a terrorist attack, and (2) the attack took place while you were a federal employee performing official duties outside the United States.

Disability resulting from military service injuries. If you received tax-exempt benefits from the Department of Veterans Affairs for personal injuries resulting from active service in the armed forces and later receive CSRS or FERS disability payments for disability arising from the same injuries, you cannot treat the disability payments as tax-exempt income. They are treated as a disability pension or annuity subject to the rules described earlier.

Payment for annual leave. When you retire, any payment for your unused annual leave is taxed as a salary payment. It is not treated as disability or annuity pay, but is taxed as wages in the tax year you receive the payment.

Part IV Rules for Survivors of Federal Employees

Salary or wages earned by a federal employee but paid to the employee's survivor or beneficiary after the employee's death are "income in respect of the decedent." This income is taxable to the survivor or beneficiary. This treatment also applies to payments for accrued annual leave.

Dependents of public safety officers. The death benefit payable to surviving dependents of public safety officers (law enforcement officers or firefighters) who die in the performance of duty is not taxable. The benefit applies to public safety officers who died from injuries sustained after September 28, 1976, and is administered through the Bureau of Justice Assistance.

The Bureau may pay the surviving dependents a temporary benefit up to $3,000 if it finds that the death of a public safety officer is one for which a final benefit will probably be paid. If there is no final payment, the recipient of the temporary benefit is liable for repayment. However, the Bureau may not require all or part of the repayment if it will cause a hardship. If that happens, that amount is tax free.

The death benefit is not includible in the decedent's gross estate for federal estate tax purposes.

Death Benefit Exclusion

You can exclude from income up to $5,000 paid to you as beneficiary of an employee or former employee because of his or her death. However, the exclusion does not apply if the employee died after August 20, 1996.

The maximum total exclusion is $5,000 regardless of the number of employers paying death benefits or the number of beneficiaries. If more than one person is entitled to death benefits, they must allocate the $5,000 exclusion among themselves in proportion to the relative value of their benefits.

The exclusion applies to the benefits you receive from the CSRS and FERS. It also applies to benefits you receive from the TSP if the employee's entire account balance is paid to the beneficiaries within the same calendar year. See Thrift Savings Plan, later.

The exclusion is treated as additional contributions by the employee. Add the amount of the allowable exclusion to the employee's unadjusted cost in figuring your tax-free benefits.

FERS Death Benefit

You are entitled to a special FERS death benefit if you were the spouse of an active FERS employee who died after at least 18 months of federal service. At your option, you can take the benefit in the form of a single payment or in the form of a special annuity payable over a 3-year period.

The tax treatment of the special death benefit depends on the option you choose and whether a FERS survivor annuity is also paid.

If you choose the single payment option, use the following rules:

- 1) If a FERS survivor annuity is not paid, at least part of the special death benefit is tax free. The tax-free part is an amount equal to the employee's FERS contributions (plus any allowable death benefit exclusion allocated to that benefit).
- 2) If a FERS survivor annuity is paid, all of the special death benefit is taxable. You cannot allocate any of the employee's FERS contributions (or any allowable death benefit exclusion) to the special death benefit.

If you choose the 3-year annuity option, at least part of each monthly payment is tax free. Use the following rules:

- 1) If a FERS survivor annuity is not paid, the tax-free part of each monthly payment is an amount equal to the employee's FERS contributions (plus any allowable death benefit exclusion allocated to the special death benefit) divided by 36.
- 2) If a FERS survivor annuity is paid, allocate the employee's FERS contributions (plus any allowable death benefit exclusion allocated to the FERS benefits) between the 3-year annuity and the survivor annuity. Make the allocation in the same proportion that the expected return from each annuity bears to the total expected return from both annuities. Divide the amount allocated to the 3-year annuity by 36. The result is the tax-free part of each monthly payment of the 3-year annuity.

CSRS or FERS Survivor Annuity

You must use the Simplified Method or the General Rule to report your CSRS or FERS survivor annuity. If your annuity starting date is after November 18, 1996, you must use the Simplified Method. Your annuity starting date is the day after the date of the employee's death.

The General Rule is not discussed in detail in this publication. For information about it, see Publication 939.

Three-Year Rule. If your annuity starting date was before July 2, 1986, you probably had to report your annuity using the Three-Year Rule. Under this rule, you excluded all the annuity payments from income until you fully recovered your cost. After the cost was recovered, all payments became fully taxable. You cannot use another rule to again exclude amounts from income.

The Three-Year Rule was repealed for survivors with an annuity starting date after July 1, 1986.

Surviving spouse with no children receiving annuities. To use the Simplified Method, complete the worksheet (Table 1) discussed in Part II and printed near the end of the publication.

Example. Diane Greene, age 48, began receiving a $1,500 monthly CSRS annuity in March 1997 upon the death of her husband. Her husband was a federal employee when he died. She received 10 payments in 1997. Her husband had contributed $36,000 to the retirement plan.

Diane must use the Simplified Method. She fills out the worksheet in Table 1 as follows:

Table 1. Simplified Method Worksheet

1. Enter the total annuity received this year. Also add this amount to the total for Form 1040, line 16a, or Form 1040A, line 11a $15,000
2. Enter your cost in the plan at the annuity starting date, plus any death benefit exclusion 36,000

NOTE: If you received annuity payments in prior years, skip line 3 and enter the amount from line 4 of last year's worksheet on line 4.

3. Age at annuity starting date: Enter:

55 and under	360
56-60	310
61-65	260
66-70	210
71 and over	160
	360
4. Divide line 2 by line 3 100
5. Multiply line 4 by the number of months for which this year's payments were made 1,000

NOTE: If your annuity starting date was before 1987, enter the amount from line 5 on line 8 below. Skip lines 6, 7, 10, and 11.

6. Enter any amounts previously recovered tax free in years after 1986 0
 7. Subtract line 6 from line 2 36,000
 8. Enter the smaller of line 5 or line 7 1,000
 9. Taxable annuity for year. Subtract line 8 from line 1. Enter the result, but not less than zero. Also add this amount to the total for Form 1040, line 16b, or Form 1040A, line 11b $14,000
- NOTE: If your Form CSA 1099R shows a larger amount, use the amount on line 9 instead.
10. Add lines 6 and 8 1,000
 11. Balance of cost to be recovered. Subtract line 10 from line 2 $35,000

Diane keeps a copy of the completed worksheet for her records. It will help her figure her taxable annuity in later years. Diane's tax-free monthly amount is $100 (line 4 of the worksheet). If she lives to collect more than 360 payments, the payments after the 360th will be fully taxable.

Surviving spouse with child. If the survivor benefits include both a life annuity for the surviving spouse and one or more temporary annuities for the employee's children, an additional step is needed under the Simplified Method to allocate the monthly exclusion among the beneficiaries correctly.

Figure the total monthly exclusion for all beneficiaries by completing lines 2 through 4 of the worksheet in Table 1 as if only the oldest beneficiary (usually the surviving spouse) received an annuity. Then, to figure the monthly exclusion for each beneficiary, multiply line 4 of the worksheet by a fraction. For any beneficiary, the numerator of the fraction is that beneficiary's monthly annuity, and the denominator of the fraction is the total of the monthly annuity payments to all the beneficiaries.

Child's temporary annuity. Each surviving child will receive a temporary annuity until the child reaches age 18, marries, or dies, whichever comes first. There are two exceptions to this. If the child is a full-time student after reaching age 18, the annuity will continue until the child stops being a student, reaches age 22, marries, or dies, whichever occurs first. If the child is incapable of self-support after age 18 due to a medical condition that began before age 18, the annuity will continue until the child becomes capable of self-support, marries, or dies.

The ending of a child's temporary annuity does not affect the total monthly exclusion figured under the Simplified Method. The total exclusion merely needs to be reallocated at that time among the remaining beneficiaries. If only the surviving spouse is left drawing an annuity, the surviving spouse is entitled to the entire monthly exclusion as figured in the worksheet.

Example. Assume the same facts as in the Diane Greene example, above, except that the Greenes had a son, David, who was age 15 at the time of his father's death. David is entitled to a $500 per month temporary annuity until he reaches age 18 (age 22, if he remains a full-time student and does not marry until that time).

In completing the Simplified Method Worksheet, Diane fills out the entries through line 4 exactly as shown above. That is, she includes on line 1 only the amount of the annuity she herself received and she uses on line 3 the 360 factor for her age. After arriving at the $100 monthly exclusion on line 4, however, Diane allocates it between her own annuity and that of her son.

To find how much of the monthly exclusion to allocate to her own annuity, Diane multiplies the $100 monthly exclusion by the fraction $\frac{$1,500}{$1,500 + $500}$ (her monthly annuity over $2,000 (the total of her $1,500 and David's $500 annuities)). She enters the result, $75, just below the entry space for line 4. She completes the worksheet by entering $750 on lines 5 and 8 and $14,250 on line 9.

A second worksheet should be completed for David's annuity. On line 1, he enters $5,000 as the total annuity received. Lines 2, 3, and 4 are the same as those on his mother's worksheet. In allocating the $100 monthly exclusion on line 4 to his annuity, David multiplies it by the fraction $\frac{$500}{$2,000}$. His resulting monthly exclusion is $25. His exclusion for the year (line 8) is $250 and his taxable pension for the year (line 9) is $4,750.

Diane and David only need to complete lines 10 and 11 on a single worksheet to keep track of their unrecovered cost for next year. These lines are exactly as shown in the earlier example.

When David stops getting his temporary annuity at age 18 (or age 22, if applicable), the computation of the total monthly exclusion will not change. The only difference will be that Diane will then claim the full exclusion against her annuity alone.

Annuity for a surviving child only. A method similar to the Simplified Method also can be used to report the taxable and nontaxable parts of a temporary annuity (or annuities) for one or more surviving children when there is no surviving spouse annuity. To use this method, divide the deceased employee's cost plus any death benefit exclusion by the number of months from the child's annuity starting date until the date the child will reach age 22. The result is the monthly exclusion. (But the monthly exclusion cannot be more than the monthly annuity payment. You can carry over unused exclusion amounts to apply against future annuity payments.) If the surviving child is entitled to a temporary annuity regardless of age because he or she is disabled, see Disabled child, below.

More than one child. If there is more than one child entitled to a temporary annuity (and no surviving spouse annuity), divide the cost plus any death benefit exclusion by the number of months of payments until the date the youngest child will reach age 22. This monthly exclusion must then be allocated among the children in proportion to their monthly annuity payments, like the exclusion shown in the previous example.

Disabled child. If a child otherwise entitled to a temporary annuity was permanently disabled at the annuity starting date (and there is no surviving spouse annuity), that child is treated for tax purposes as receiving a lifetime annuity, like a surviving spouse. The child must complete the Simplified Method Worksheet using the recovery factor on line 3 corresponding to the child's age at the annuity starting date. If, besides the disabled child, there is another child, or children, entitled to temporary annuities, an allocation like the one shown under Surviving spouse with child, earlier, must be made to determine each child's share of the exclusion.

Limit on tax-free amount. If your annuity starting date is before 1987, the tax-free part of each whole monthly payment remains the same each year you receive payments—even if the amount received is increased or if you outlive the number of months used on line 3 of the Simplified Method Worksheet.

If your annuity starting date is after 1986, the most that can be recovered tax free is the cost of the annuity. Once the total of your exclusions equals the cost when annuity payments began, your entire annuity is taxable. If the annuity starting date is after July 1, 1986, and death occurs before the cost is recovered tax free, the unrecovered cost can be claimed as a miscellaneous itemized deduction (not subject to the 2%-of-adjusted-gross-income limit) for the beneficiary's last tax year.

Lump-Sum CSRS or FERS Payment

If a federal employee dies before retiring and leaves no one eligible for a survivor annuity, the estate or other beneficiary will receive a lump-sum payment from the CSRS or FERS. This single payment is made up of the regular contributions to the retirement fund plus accrued interest, if any, to the extent not already paid to the employee.

The beneficiary will be taxed in the year a lump sum is distributed or made available. The tax is on any amount by which the lump-sum payment exceeds the employee's contributions to the fund plus any death benefit exclusion.

Lump-sum payment at end of survivor annuity. If an annuity is paid to the federal employee's survivor and the survivor annuity ends before an amount equal to the deceased employee's contributions plus any interest has been paid out, the rest of the contributions plus any interest will be paid in a lump sum to the employee's estate or other beneficiary. Generally, this beneficiary will not have to include any of the lump sum in gross income because, when it is added to amounts previously received under the contract that were excludable, it still will be less than the employee's total contributions (plus any death benefit exclusion, if it applies).

Example. At the time of your brother's death in December 1996, he was employed by the federal government and had contributed $45,000 to the CSRS. His widow received $6,600 in survivor annuity payments before she died in 1997. She had used the Simplified Method for reporting her annuity and properly excluded $1,000 from gross income.

Since only $6,600 of the guaranteed amount of $45,000 (your brother's contributions) was paid as an annuity, the balance of $38,400 was paid to you in a lump sum as your brother's sole beneficiary. You figure the taxability of this payment as follows:

Lump-sum payment	$38,400
Plus: Amount previously excludable	1,000
Total	$39,400
Minus: Employee's total cost	45,000
Taxable amount (not less than zero)	$ 0

Voluntary contributions. If a CSRS employee dies before retiring from government service, the voluntary contributions to the retirement fund cannot be used to provide an additional annuity to the survivors. Instead, the voluntary contributions plus any accrued interest will be paid in a lump sum to the estate or other beneficiary. The beneficiary reports this payment minus the employee's total voluntary contributions as income for the year distributed or made available. This excess may qualify for capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option.

Generally, the part of a lump-sum distribution from active participation in a year before 1974 may qualify for capital gain treatment. The part from active participation after 1973 is taxed as ordinary income. The beneficiary can choose to have this distribution taxed under the 5- or 10-year tax option. This treatment applies only if (1) regular annuity benefits cannot be paid under the system and (2) the beneficiary also receives a lump-sum payment of the compulsory contributions plus interest within the same tax year as the voluntary contributions. For more information, see Lump-Sum Distributions in Publication 575.

Thrift Savings Plan

The payment you receive as the beneficiary of a decedent's Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) account minus any death benefit exclusion is fully taxable. However, if you are the decedent's surviving spouse, you generally can roll over the otherwise taxable part of the payment to an IRA tax free. (You cannot make a rollover to another qualified plan.) If you do not choose a direct rollover of the decedent's TSP account, mandatory 20% income tax withholding will apply. For more information, see Rollover Rules, in Part II. If you are not the surviving spouse, the payment is not eligible for rollover treatment.

The death benefit exclusion applies if you receive a lump-sum payment as the beneficiary of the TSP account of a government employee who died before August 21, 1996. Treat the exclusion as the cost basis of the payment. The taxable portion is the difference between the payment and the cost basis. If you receive TSP annuity payments that start after the death of the employee, use the death benefit exclusion as the cost basis to determine the taxable portion of the annuity.

If you receive, as the beneficiary of the decedent, non-TSP payments that qualify for the death benefit exclusion, allocate the $5,000 exclusion among all payments in the same proportion that the expected return of each bears to the total expected return.

If the entire TSP account balance is paid to the beneficiaries in the same calendar year, the payments might qualify for the 5- or 10-year tax option. See Publication 575 for details. Also see the TSP publication, Important Tax Information About Thrift Savings Plan Death Benefit Payments.

Federal Estate Tax

Form 706, United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, must be filed for the estate of a citizen or resident of the United States who died in 1997 if the gross estate is more than $600,000. Included in this $600,000 are any taxable gifts made by the decedent after 1976, and the specific exemption allowed for gifts by the decedent after September 8, 1976, and before 1977.

The gross estate generally includes the value of all property beneficially owned by the decedent at the time of death. Examples of property included in the gross estate are salary or annuity payments that had accrued to an employee or retiree, but which were not paid before death, and the balance in the decedent's TSP account.

The gross estate usually also includes the value of the death and survivor benefits payable under the CSRS or the FERS. If the federal employee died leaving no one eligible to receive a survivor annuity, the lump sum (representing the employee's contribution to the system plus any accrued interest) payable to the estate or other beneficiary is included in the employee's gross estate.

Marital deduction. The estate tax marital deduction is a deduction from the gross estate of the value of property that is included in the gross estate but that passes, or has passed, to the surviving spouse. Generally, there is no limit on the amount of the marital deduction. Community property passing to the surviving spouse qualifies for the marital deduction.

More information. For more information, get Publication 950, Introduction to Estate and Gift Taxes.

Part V Rules for Survivors of Federal Retirees

Retirement benefits accrued and payable to a CSRS or FERS retiree before death, but paid to you as a survivor, are taxable in the same manner and to the same extent these benefits would have been taxable had the retiree lived to receive them.

CSRS or FERS Survivor Annuity

CSRS or FERS annuity payments you receive as the surviving spouse of a federal retiree are fully taxable or are partly taxable under either the General Rule or the Simplified Method.

Cost recovered. If the retiree reported the annuity under the Three-Year Rule and recovered tax free all of his or her cost before dying, your survivor annuity payments are fully taxable. This is also true if the retiree had an annuity starting date after 1986, reported the annuity under the General Rule or the Simplified Method, and had fully recovered his or her cost tax free.

But see the discussions about the death benefit exclusion later in this part.

General Rule. If the retiree was reporting the annuity under the General Rule, use the same exclusion percentage that the retiree used. Apply the exclusion percentage to the amount specified as your survivor annuity at the retiree's annuity starting date. Do not apply the exclusion percentage to any cost-of-living increases made after that date. Those increases are fully taxable. For information about the General Rule, get Publication 939.

Simplified Method. If the retiree was reporting the annuity under the Simplified Method, your monthly tax-free amount is the same as the retiree's monthly exclusion (from line 4 of the Simplified Method Worksheet). This amount remains fixed even if the monthly payment is increased or decreased. You continue to claim this exclusion each month until the entire cost of the contract has been recovered tax free. This is shown in the example for Bill Kirkland under Simplified Method in Part II.

Limit on tax-free amount. A cost-of-living increase in your survivor annuity payments does not change the amount you can exclude from gross income under either the General Rule or the Simplified Method. The tax-free amount remains the same. The number of payments from which you can exclude a tax-free amount may be limited, however, depending on the annuity starting date.

If the retiree's annuity starting date was before 1987, you can exclude the tax-free amount from all the annuity payments you receive. This includes any payments received after you recover the annuity cost tax free.

If the retiree's annuity starting date is after 1986, you can exclude a tax-free amount only from a limited number of payments: those you receive until you recover the annuity cost tax free. The annuity payments you receive after you recover the annuity cost tax free are fully taxable.

Death Benefit Exclusion

The $5,000 death benefit exclusion does not apply to the CSRS or FERS annuity paid to the surviving spouse of a deceased retiree. (But see Survivors of Disability Retirees, later in this part.) However, if the retiree died before August 21, 1996, a child getting a temporary annuity can get the exclusion.

Retiree survived by spouse and children. If the retiree is survived by a child or children entitled to temporary annuities, and a spouse is entitled to an annuity for life, the temporary annuities are treated separately from the life annuity. The children recover the allowable death benefit exclusion (which becomes their cost) by allocating it over the number of months from their annuity starting date until the youngest child reaches age 22. See Annuity for a surviving child only under CSRS or FERS Survivor Annuity in Part IV. The life annuity is taxed as already explained.

If there is more than one child entitled to a temporary annuity, each child is entitled to a portion of the death benefit exclusion. This portion is based on the value of the child's annuity in proportion to the total value of all the temporary annuities.

Example. A retiree who died before August 21, 1996, left a widow entitled to a survivor's annuity for life and two children, Sam and Lou, entitled to temporary annuities. Sam's annuity is valued at $6,000 and Lou's at $2,000. There are no other death benefits payable and the allowable death benefit exclusion is $5,000. The exclusion allocable to Sam's interest is $3,750 $[($6,000/$8,000) \times $5,000]$; and the exclusion allocable to Lou's interest is $1,250 $[($2,000/$8,000) \times $5,000]$.

Retiree survived only by children. If the retiree is survived only by a child or children entitled to temporary annuities, the children recover their cost, which is equal to the retiree's unrecovered cost plus the allowable death benefit exclusion, by allocating it over the number of months from their annuity starting date until the youngest child reaches age 22. See Annuity for a surviving child only under CSRS or FERS Survivor Annuity in Part IV.

If there is more than one child and one or more of the children qualifies for an annuity after reaching age 22 because of the lack of ability to be self-supporting, a determination of the proper exclusion for each child should be obtained by writing to the Internal Revenue Service. There is a $75 fee for this service.

Survivors of disability retirees. If you are receiving a CSRS or FERS survivor annuity as either the spouse or child of an employee who died after retiring on disability but before reaching the employee's minimum retirement age (explained next), the death benefit exclusion will apply to your survivor annuity. Use the allowable death benefit exclusion to increase your cost of the contract in the same manner as if the retiree had died while still a federal employee. See Death Benefit Exclusion in Part IV.

Minimum retirement age. This is the age at which a person would first be eligible to receive an annuity without regard to disability.

Lump-Sum CSRS or FERS Payment

If a deceased retiree has no beneficiary eligible to receive a survivor annuity, the retiree's unrecovered CSRS or FERS contributions plus accrued interest, if any, will be paid in a lump sum to the estate or other beneficiary. The estate or other beneficiary will rarely have to include any part of the lump sum in gross income. The taxable amount is figured as follows:

- 1) Lump-sum payment $ _____
- 2) Amounts received under contract that were excludable by retiree $ _____
- 3) (1) plus (2) $ _____
- 4) Employee's total contributions $ _____
- 5) Death benefit exclusion, if it applies (up to $5,000) $ _____
- 6) (4) plus (5) $ _____
- 7) Taxable amount (not less than zero) ((3) minus (6)) $ _____

The taxable amount, if any, may qualify for capital gain treatment or the 5- or 10-year tax option. Generally, that part of a lump-sum distribution from active participation in a year before 1974 may qualify for capital gain treatment, while the part from active participation after 1973 is taxed as ordinary income. The beneficiary can choose to have this ordinary income part taxed under the 5- or 10-year tax option. If the beneficiary also receives a lump-sum payment of unrecovered voluntary contributions plus interest, this treatment applies only if the payment is received within the same tax year. For more information, see Lump-Sum Distributions and 5- or 10-Year Tax Option in Publication 575.

Voluntary Contributions

If you receive an additional survivor annuity benefit from voluntary contributions to the CSRS, treat it separately from the annuity that comes from regular contributions. If, before death, the retiree was receiving additional annuity payments from voluntary contributions and was reporting them under the General Rule, use the retiree's exclusion percentage. Apply the exclusion percentage to your additional survivor annuity benefits as of the retiree's annuity starting date. If the retiree was reporting the payments under the Simplified Method, use the same monthly exclusion amount that the retiree used. If the annuity starting date was after 1986, the total exclusion is limited to the amount of the voluntary contributions. After the total of these contributions has been recovered tax free, the additional annuity payments are fully taxable.

Each year you will receive Form CSF 1099R, Statement of Survivor Annuity Paid, that will show how much of your total annuity received in the past year was from each type of benefit.

The death benefit exclusion does not apply to an additional survivor annuity from voluntary contributions.

Lump-sum payment. If at the time of the retiree's death there was no one eligible to receive a survivor annuity, the retiree's unrecovered voluntary contributions plus any interest would have been paid in a lump sum to the estate or other beneficiary. Part of the lump-sum payment may be taxable to the beneficiary. To figure the taxable amount, add the lump-sum payment to any excludable amounts received by the retiree and subtract the retiree's total voluntary contributions. The excess, if any, is taxable. See Lump-Sum CSRS or FERS Payment, earlier.

Thrift Savings Plan

If you receive a payment from the TSP account of a deceased federal retiree, the payment (minus any death benefit exclusion you claim) is fully taxable. However, if you are the retiree's surviving spouse, you generally can roll over the otherwise taxable payment to an IRA tax free. (You cannot make a rollover to another qualified plan.) For information, see Rollover Rules in Part II, earlier. If you are not the surviving spouse, the payment is not eligible for rollover treatment.

If the retiree chose to receive his or her account balance as an annuity, the payments you receive as the retiree's survivor are fully taxable when you receive them, whether they are received as annuity payments or as a cash refund of the remaining value of the amount used to purchase the annuity. The death benefit exclusion does not apply to the annuity payments you receive as the retiree's survivor.

Federal Estate Tax

A federal estate tax return may have to be filed for the estate of the retired employee. See Federal Estate Tax in Part IV.

Income Tax Deduction for Estate Tax Paid

Any income that a decedent had a right to receive and could have received had death not occurred that was not properly includible in the decedent's final income tax return is treated as income in respect of a decedent. This includes retirement benefits accrued and payable to a retiree before death, but paid to you as a survivor.

If you are required to include income in respect of a decedent in gross income for any tax year, you can deduct for the same tax year the portion of the federal estate tax imposed on the decedent's estate that is from the inclusion in the estate of the right to receive that amount. This also is true if you are required to include income in respect of a prior decedent. For this purpose, if the retiree died after the annuity starting date, the taxable portion of a survivor annuity you receive (other than a temporary annuity for a child) is considered income in respect of a decedent.

The federal estate tax you can deduct is determined by comparing the actual federal estate tax and the tax that would have been paid if the income in respect of the decedent were not included in the gross estate.

Income tax deductions for the estate tax on the value of your survivor annuity will be spread over the period of your life expectancy. The deductions cannot be taken beyond your life expectancy. Moreover, if you should die before the end of this period, there is no compensating adjustment for the unused deductions.

If the income in respect of the decedent is ordinary income, the estate tax must be deducted as a miscellaneous itemized deduction (not subject to the 2%-of-adjusted-gross-income limit).

For more information, see Income in Respect of the Decedent in Publication 559, Survivors, Executors, and Administrators.

How To Get More Information

You can get help from the IRS in several ways.

Free publications and forms. To order free publications and forms, call 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). You can also write to the IRS Forms Distribution Center nearest you. Check your income tax package for the address. Your local library or post office also may have the items you need.

For a list of free tax publications, order Publication 910, Guide to Free Tax Services. It also contains an index of tax topics and related publications and describes other free tax information services available from IRS, including tax education and assistance programs.

If you have access to a personal computer and modem, you also can get many forms and publications electronically. See Quick and Easy Access to Tax Help and Forms in your income tax package for details.

Tax questions. You can call the IRS with your tax questions. Check your income tax package or telephone book for the local number, or you can call 1-800-829-1040.

TTY/TDD equipment. If you have access to TTY/TDD equipment, you can call 1-800-829-4059 with your tax questions or to order forms and publications. See your income tax package for the hours of operation.

Evaluating the quality of our telephone services. To ensure that IRS representatives give accurate, courteous, and professional answers, we evaluate the quality of our "800 number" telephone services in several ways.

- A second IRS representative sometimes monitors live telephone calls. That person only evaluates the IRS assistor and does not keep a record of any taxpayer's name or tax identification number.
- We sometimes record telephone calls to evaluate IRS assistors objectively. We hold these recordings no longer than one week and use them only to measure the quality of assistance.
- We value our customers' opinions. Throughout this year, we will be surveying our customers for their opinions on our service.
