Form 1099-OID

(Keep for your records.)

Department of the Treasury - Internal Revenue Service

Instructions for Recipient

Original issue discount (OID) is the excess of an obligation's stated redemption price at maturity over its issue price (acquisition price for a stripped bond or coupon). OID is taxable as interest over the life of the obligation. If you are the holder of an OID obligation, generally you must include an amount of OID in your gross income each year you hold the obligation.

Obligations that may have OID include a bond, debenture, note, certificate, or other evidence of indebtedness having a term of more than 1 year. For example, the OID rules may apply to certificates of deposit (CDs), time deposits, bonus savings plans, and other deposit arrangements, especially if the payment of interest is deferred until maturity. In addition, the OID rules apply to Treasury inflation-indexed securities. However, OID on Treasury obligations is exempt from state and local income taxes.

If, as the record holder, you receive Form 1099-OID showing amounts belonging to another person, you are considered a nominee recipient. You must file Form 1099-OID for each of the other owners showing the amounts allocable to each. Furnish a Form 1099-OID to each owner. File Form(s) 1099-OID with Form 1096, Annual Summary and Transmittal of U.S. Information Returns, with the Internal Revenue Service Center for your area. On each Form 1099-OID, list yourself as the "payer" and the other owner as the "recipient." On Form 1096, list yourself as the "filer." A husband or wife is not required to file a nominee return to show amounts owned by the other. If you bought or sold an obligation during the year and you are not a nominee, you are not required to issue or file Form 1099-OID showing the OID or stated interest allocable to the seller/buyer of the obligation.

Box 1. Shows the OID on the obligation for the part of the year you owned it. Report the entire amount in box 1 as interest income on your income tax return. However, if you paid acquisition or bond premium, or if the obligation is a stripped bond or stripped coupon, you must compute your proper amount of OID. If you must compute your proper OID, see Pub. 1212, List of Original Issue Discount Instruments, to figure the correct OID to report on your tax return.

Box 2. Shows other interest on this obligation for the year, which is an amount separate from the OID. If you held the obligation the entire year, report this amount as interest income on your tax return. If you disposed of the obligation or acquired it from another holder during the year, see Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses, for reporting instructions. If you are a regular interest holder in a single-class REMIC (as defined in regulations under section 67(c)), this amount includes your share of the investment expenses of the REMIC, deductible as a "Miscellaneous Deduction" on Schedule A (Form 1040) subject to the 2% limit.

Box 3. Shows the interest or principal you forfeited if you withdrew the money before the maturity date of the obligation, such as from a CD. You may deduct this on your Federal income tax return only on the "Penalty on early withdrawal of savings" line of Form 1040.

Box 4. Shows backup withholding. For example, persons not furnishing their taxpayer identification number to the payer become subject to backup withholding at a 31% rate on certain payments shown on the form. See Form W-9, Request for Taxpayer Identification Number and Certification, for information on backup withholding. Include this amount on your income tax return as tax withheld.

Box 5. Shows the identification number (CUSIP number) or description of the obligation. The description may include the stock exchange, issuer, coupon rate, and year of maturity.
